

Ryder

Ryder has added several new styles to its functional Adrenaline Collection. All of the new models are crafted with light and rigid TR90 Duraflex frames, optically correct and shatter-proof polycarbonate lenses and 100 percent UVA, UVB and UVC protection. Other highlights of the line include hydrophilic temple tips and adjustable nose pads, flexible wire-core temple tips, polarized lenses and interchangeable lenses on some models. All lenses are adaptable to most prescriptions. Pictured here is the new Endorphin, with a suggested retail of $39.99 and $69.99 for the polarized version. Ryder also has added eight new styles to its Chill Collection. 307-734-7575 or www.rydereyewear.com

Samsonite OutLab

The new Sloth Upright Armalith is an extremely robust hybrid bag that combines the strength of a hard bottom shell with a lightweight, functional, yet super-resistant soft top made entirely from the Armalith fabric, the first time this material has been used in a bag, making it the ultimate piece of luggage to bring along on the most extreme of expeditions. Armalith is a new-generation of hard wearing textile which combines high-tech fiber and cotton. It is tougher than leather yet has the appearance, suppleness and permeability of denim. Usually used in military, space or offshore industries, thanks to the 34 percent content of high-tech fiber, this new single layered material resists scuffing and heat from friction. Its breaking limit is more than 10 tons. Often used in motor bike clothing, Armalith is light, breathable, absorbent, washable, but above all, abrasion, snag and tear resistant. The new Sloth Upright also comes with sturdy all-terrain wheels. www.samsoniteoutlab.com

Sanük

New for 2009 is the Dawn Patrol (MSRP $70), a warm, Shearling-lined base camp "sandal" with waterproof canvas uppers and lug outsole; the Tokyo (MSRP $84), with an all-suede upper in a new pattern and a rubber lug outsole; and the Pick Pocket (MSRP $60, pictured here), featuring coated cotton uppers, jeans-like stitch details and a secret stash pocket for identification or a key. All the new sandals feature the simplicity of Sanük's trademark Bare-foot Un-technology. www.sanuk.com

Scarpa

The Apex is the most versatile shoe in Scarpa's new Alpine Cross line, a major new category initiative for 2009 consisting of five new trail platforms with a total of 18 shoes in men's and women's fits. Built on a trail-running platform, the Apex is beefed up where it counts for fast-and-light hiking, carrying a pack and additional foot protection.

A dual-density EVA midsole, Scarpa's Crossbow heel stabilizing system and a TPU plate under the forefoot provide lightweight support and protection underfoot. The uppers feature a snug heel pocket, secure midfoot and a roomy toe box, with a combination of synthetic leather for durability and ventilating mesh. Armor-Cap TPU molded toe cap add trail protection. Scarpa's Trail-Speed Sole strikes the right balance between grip and weight, with 4 mm lugs critically placed for both propulsion and braking. Both the Apex (MSRP $95) and Apex GTX ($120) are available in men's and women's specific lasts. www.scarpa.net

Seattle Sports

Seattle Sports will be highlighting its new ActiveTrax Audio, a super-packable, self-powered iPod/mp3 speaker and AM/FM/Weatherband radio. Dual-mode charging means the ActiveTrax Audio can be charged through dynamo cranking or solar charging. Just turn the crank, plug an mp3 player into the side jack, and enjoy the mini boom-box. A side USB port provides back-up charging to iPods or other USB-compatible devices. 206-782-0773 x15 or www.seattlesportsco.com

Sherpani

Sherpani will launch a new luggage collection for 2008-2009, designed with consideration for the unique needs of women travelers as well as a desire to create a collection that is stylish and environmentally friendly. The line is built with recycled aluminum, urethane wheels and internal and external organizational pockets. The luggage is
